DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's amendment filed Feb 22, 1999 have been fully considered but they are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 1,5-9,18,21-23,26,27,29, 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 as being unpatentable over Bezviner et al [5,737,607] in view of Cheng et al [5,793,365]

As per claim 1, Bezviner et al disclose a computer program including a object reference server mechanism or server process for bootstrapping a remote second apparatus or browser, said object reference server mechanism delivering an object reference for a naming context object to said remote second apparatus upon request of said second apparatus by saying the first object in a first address space or object reference server; a second object in a second address or second apparatus [col 2 line 41-59]; and the bootstrapping a remote second apparatus such as a process bootstrapping communication which activating, invoking and calling a object [col 6 line 53-58]. Bezviner also disclose the signal bearing media , the recordable media and transmission media such as local hard disk [Bezviner col 4 line 12-18] .However Bezviner did not teach the naming context object . Cheng et al taught an information system which has distributed object name services including shared properties, disclosed one or more files are constructed which exist in the file system, each of the files capturing the semantics of the naming context object [Cheng col 3 line 10-13]. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the naming context module in an information system as taught by Cheng into the data processing system of Bezviner in order to provide the persistence of name object bindings between servers and clients communications. By this rationale claim 1 is rejected.

As per claims 5,6, Bezviner-Cheng disclose the object reference comprises a stringified object reference [Cheng col 3 line 65] and a root naming context object [Cheng col 5 line 50-col 6 line 15] . By this rationale claims 5,6, are rejected Claims 7-9,18, 21-23,26, 27,29,30 contain the same limitations that were addressed in rejecting claims 1, 4, 5, 6 above. By the same rationale applied above, claims 7-10, 18,21,26, 27 are rejected.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-4,10-17,19,20,24,25,28,31-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 as being unpatentable over Bezviner et al [5,737,607] in view of Cheng et al [5,793,365] and further in view of Elliott et al [5,867,495]

Art Unit: 2756

As per claims 2-4,10,11,13-17,19,20,31-36 Bezviner-Cheng did not teach a web server, browser, web application, URL, web server directory, Java applet. However Elliott et al in his application on hybrid network, disclosed web server [Elliott col 3 line 6, col 55 line 1]; web browser [Elliott col 10 line 19]; web application such as E-mail [Elliott col 8 line 18]; web server directory [Elliott col 9 line 24, col 17 line 17]; URL [Elliott col 57 line 59]; Java applet [Elliott col 58 line 34]. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the Bezviner-Cheng computer program which has a object reference server mechanism delivering an object reference for a naming context object into Elliott network which has web server running Java applet in order to provide the persistence of the bindings between the client/server communications. By this rationale claims 2-4,10,11,13-17,19,20,31-36 are rejected.

Conclusion

4. All claims are rejected.
5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

- Cook et al Agent Based Instruction System and Method [USP 5,727,950]

- Serlet et al Method for Providing Automatic and Dynamic Translation of Object Oriented Programming Language-Based Message Passing into Operation System Message Passing Using Proxy Objects [USP 5,481,721]

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory

In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
